The Alois Zimmermann Winery is situated in the charming wine village of Theiß north of the Danube River not far from the city of Krems. Zimmermann took over responsibility for management of the winery from his parents Alois senior and Edeltraud Zimmermann in 2007. The winery has been built up to its present state with the visionary eyes of a father and son team. It was always clear to Alois junior that he wanted to become a vintner. The creation of wine throughout the year, from the work in the vineyard to the guidance in the cellar, was always a process that fascinated him. He sees the care of the vines as of central importance and for that reason you will find him more often in the vineyard than in the office. Before Zimmermann took over complete responsibility for the family winery he sought international experience to broaden his perspective. The essence of his experience has helped him to concentrate on the inherent strengths of his own winery.
